

Studia Ecologiae et Bioethicae
year: 2010, vol.:8 number: 2, pages: 53-66

Michał Latawiec

Uniwersytet Kardynała Stefana Wyszyńskiego, Instytut Ekologii i Bioetyki, ul. Wóycickiego
1/3, 01-938 Warsaw, Poland
michal.latawiec@ieib.edu.pl

NATURAL ENVIRONMENT PROTECTION IN PROFESSOR STEFAN KOZŁOWSKI'S STUDIES

(Ochrona środowiska przyrodniczego w pracach prof. Stefana Kozłowskiego)

Keywords: SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT, STEFAN KOZŁOWSKI, ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION

Abstract; The aim of this article is to introduce selected issues raised by Prof. Stefan Kozłowski, for the benefit of environmental protection. During fifty years of his professional activity, many important, memorable issues have been appeared.

The article points at Kozłowski's attempt to outline problems concerning nature conservation, which, in spite of beautiful tradition, was perverted by political system of that time. This leads to many abuses in natural resources management and excessive exploitation of those resources. Another important question is Kozłowski's striving to establish area forms of nature conservation. Realizing these aims, he brings to formulate full legal system of all nature components protection. The last subject, that is mentioned in the article, is Kozłowski's contribution to implementation of sustainable development rules. Such development should be a superior rule in environmental policy leading by state.

Kozłowski often advances courageous thesis, that were constructed in the taste of constructive criticism. Proposed solutions often have system features.